

Cross-list Policy
Department of Comparative and World Literature
Adopted 2007

1. no more than 70% of the course can be devoted to any one linguistic or ethno-cultural tradition
2. 80% or more of course materials and/or class days must be devoted to discussing texts (as opposed to other media)
3. course instruction must be informed by and seek to expose students to comparative literary methodologies